

Art in Print Institutional License Agreement

1. Scope of License. Institutional Subscriber Use Restrictions. This Agreement applies to the Art in Print journal for which the Subscribing Institution shall have paid the applicable library subscription fee (the "Journal"). Under this Agreement, the Subscribing Institution is granted a nonexclusive, revocable, nontransferable right and license to access and use the Journal via the Subscribing Institution's Internet protocol addresses (IP addresses), and, in connection with the foregoing, to permit Subscribing Institution's Authorized Users to access the Journal and make the uses described below. In addition, the Subscribing Institution's library facilities are permitted to use printouts from the electronic versions of the Journal subject to the limitations of Section 108 of the Copyright Act of 1976 and the CONTU Guidelines related thereto.

"Authorized Users" are the employees, faculty, staff, and students (including distance learners) of the Subscribing Institution, and other persons affiliated with the Subscribing Institution (e.g., alumni or retirees) who have general Internet access through the campus network or via a secure proxy server. Patrons of the Subscribing Institution's library facilities who are not described above are Authorized Users only if physically present at such facilities and subject to the supervision of the Subscribing Institution. Authorized Users include persons affiliated with remote sites or campuses of the Subscribing Institution that are administered from the Subscribing Institution's site or campus, but not persons affiliated with remote teaching campuses that have separate administrative staffs. If Art in Print determines that the range of IP addresses claimed by the Subscribing Institution represents more than one campus, it may terminate this Agreement forthwith by notice to the Subscribing Institution. Subject to the foregoing, this Agreement places no restrictions on the number of Authorized Users who may access the Journal at any given time.

2. Authorized individual use. An Authorized User may, acting as an individual and not in a professional capacity as a librarian of the Subscribing Institution:

- Download individual articles from the Journal for personal use, and archive them on his/her own personal computer. Note: the purpose of this is to enable research-driven, as-needed downloading.
- Print out articles from the Journal for personal use.
- Send one copy of the Journal article by email, hard copy, or fax to one person at another location for that individual's personal use as above. This means (among other things) that bulk forwarding is expressly forbidden, as is serial or cumulative forwarding that results in a third person's reproducing on his or her computer, in effect, all or any substantial subset of any issue of the Journal.
- Make traditional scholarly re-use of material within the bounds of fair use.

The Subscribing Institution is responsible for taking reasonable measures to prevent access by unauthorized persons to its IP addresses, and is responsible for terminating any unauthorized access of which it has actual notice or knowledge. The Subscribing Institution will not be held responsible for uses of the subscribed Journal that are contrary to the guidelines stated above, provided that such uses are without its express or implied consent, and provided that it promptly notifies Art in Print of any such use of which it becomes aware and takes all reasonable steps to terminate such activity.

5. Term and Termination. This Agreement shall remain in effect for so long as the Subscribing Institution remains current in its subscription payments. However, Art in Print reserves the right to revise this Agreement from time to time, provided it gives the Subscribing Institution notice thereof at least thirty (30) days prior to the effective date of such revision. If the Subscribing Institution refuses to accept such revision it may terminate at such time and receive a pro rata refund of its site license fees for the then-current year.
